To Whom It May Concern;

Orkun Bulut Duman has taken part in Turkcell Mobile Development Department team during his internship between August 11 and September 5, 2014.

He worked on some of the projects developed within the Mobile Development Department. In addition to providing highly valuable contributions as a blog writer on "The Writers of the Future" (<https://gelecegiyazanlar.turkcell.com.tr/>) blog, Orkun worked as a blog writer for programming and took an important role for answering the questions on the blog. During his internship, he developed various programs and made innovative contributions to their design. These include Android Wear application for smart watches that will be published as an app in Turkcell store, and iPhone application used to calculate user movement activity for Turkcell Health application.

Orkun is an extremely attentive and smart person. His strong commitment to the given tasks and his interest on learning new subjects is extraordinarily remarkable. Not only Orkun has a natural talent on software development, but also he is skillful and inventive when following his intuitions.

While the programs he developed were important contributions to the forthcoming Turkcell apps, his invaluable ideas (e.g. using I-Phone5 M7 chip to sense motion activity) significantly improved their quality. Undoubtedly, these added great value to our Mobile Development Department processes.

On the other hand, Orkun provided creative ideas that helped us to improve Turkcell user experience. To give an example, using voice control for different applications will create added value for our customers.

As a team member, he presented a significantly self-motivated behavior within the team and this, in turn, greatly improved the team's overall motivation and performance. In addition, his collaboration skills and relations with the team members were outstanding.

Motivated by his proactive approach and value-adding creative ideas, I wholeheartedly recommend Orkun for your university. If you have any questions, please feel free to contact me.

Truly Yours,

Süreyya CİLİV,
CEO of Turkcell
